3. COOKIES AND SIMILAR TECHNOLOGIES

A "cookie" is a small text file that websites send to your computer, mobile device, or other Internet-connected device to identify your browser or to store information or settings in the browser. A "web beacon", also known as an Internet tag, pixel tag, or clear GIF, links web pages to web servers and the cookies and may be used to transmit information collected through cookies back to a web server.

Cookies on Our Sites

Our sites use cookies, web beacons, java scripts, and similar technologies to collect certain information about your activity when you visit our websites. These technologies collect your Internet Protocol (IP) address, network location, device ID, country of residence, zip code, demographic information, information relating to interests and preferences, information provided by enabled location services on devices, home and work locations when device location sharing is enabled, and information about your interaction with our websites.

We use this data to analyze trends, administer our sites, track users' movements through our websites, and gather demographic information about our guests as a whole. We may receive reports based on these technologies on an aggregated basis.

Behavioral Tracking/Third Party Cookies

We use third-party analytics services on our websites, including Google Analytics. To learn more about Google Analytics, visit: <https://policies.google.com/technologies/partner-sites>.

Your Internet browser may let you restrict or disable certain types of cookies. Without cookies, you may not be able to use all of the options on our websites.

Some web browsers allow you to turn on Do Not Track ("DNT"), which sends signals to websites you visit, telling those sites that you do not want your online activities to be tracked. Our websites currently are not designed to respond to DNT signals received from web browsers.

We may also use JavaScript to help our websites, especially pictures, function better. You can turn JavaScript on or off in your browser functions, but if you turn it off, you may not be able to use all of the options on our websites.

Sometimes we use technology to collect the information that your browser uses to auto-fill. We use this to tell you if there is a mistake in registration or if the registration cannot be submitted. You can stop this technology by turning it off in your browser, and you will still be able to use all of the options on our websites.

Targeted Marketing

You may opt out of receiving promotional marketing communications from us at any time. If you would like to opt out, please follow the instructions on the bottom of your marketing communications, or email privacy@swireprops.com. If you opt out, we may still send you non-marketing communications, such as information about your purchase or lease.

Except as listed below, we will retain your personal information for one year following our last commercial interaction with you unless federal or state law requires us to retain it for a longer or shorter period of time. In no event shall we retain your personal information or sensitive personal information for the disclosed purpose for which it was collected for longer than is reasonably necessary for that disclosed purpose.

Children's Privacy

Our website and services are intended for or targeted to children under the age of 13, and we do not knowingly collect personal information from children under the age of 13. If you become aware that your child has provided personal information without your consent, please contact us at privacy@swireprops.com.

4. CALIFORNIA PRIVACY NOTICE

“Legal Categories” of Personal Information

California law requires us to tell you about the personal information we collect about you in a certain way – specifically, we need to tie it back to “legal categories” of personal information that are listed in the law. To do this, we bundled up the information we gave you above in this Privacy Notice and matched the different types of personal information we collect about you with the legal category. Please note that certain pieces of personal information may fall into more than one of these categories.

To make things easier to understand, we've put this information in a chart that shows you five things:

1. The legal category of personal information,
2. Examples of the types of personal information included in each legal category,

3. The source(s) from which we collect this type of personal information
4. The purpose(s) for why we collect and use your personal information for each legal category; and
5. The business purposes for which we share your personal information and with whom.

We've included these things in the California Privacy Chart at the end of this Privacy Notice. At the end of the California Privacy Chart, we have also included a list of Information We Disclose for a Business Purpose.

Your Rights and Choices in the U.S. (Including California)

You may also designate an authorized agent to make a request on your behalf.

- Know, Erase: You may have the right to know what information is being collected about you, and to know whether your personal information is disclosed and to whom. Responding to Requests: Your request will be evaluated to determine whether the requested change meets legal regulatory requirements and does not risk making our other data less secure or changing our other data. If we aren't able to honor any part of your request, we will tell you that in our response, as well as the reason(s) we cannot do so.

Verifying Your Identity: To protect you and your information, we may ask you to confirm certain information before we honor your request. For example, if you make a request, we will ask you to confirm your email address and phone number. For certain requests, we will use a combination of your email address, phone number, zip code, and/or birth date to verify your identity, so that we can help protect your information.
